Summary

I am a Career Development Fellow in Economics at Mansfield College and a Stipendiary Lecturer in Economics at Trinity College. I previously taught economics at Lincoln College, St Edmund Hall, St Catherine's College, Jesus College and Merton College.

I obtained the Ph.D. in Economics and the M.Phil. in Economics from the University of Oxford, and I was a visiting research fellow at the University of Venice (2022), the European University Institute (2019) and at Harvard University (2019).

My research interests lie at the intersection of political economy and economic history, and I investigate the impact of voting rights' policies on representation, minority rights, inclusion, enfranchisement and social unrest.

I have an interest in the interaction between research and policy making, conducting research for the World Bank Group, Goldman Sachs, the Bank of England and the United Nations.
